Why is the automotive industry wild about BYK solutions? Because we are working at full speed on powertrains for a better future! For example, our additives contribute towards building lithium ion accumulators with greater compactness and safeness as well as increased capacity and service life. But we are also stepping on the gas when it comes to additives for supercapacitors and fuel cells. Regardless whether dispersing additives, rheological additives or anti-frothing agents are concerned, drive forward with a decisive lead – and top performance by BYK.
